

NM065: PUIN + HOOP - ER ZIT EEN GAT IN DE SOEP

RELEASE: JANUARY 19 2014

FORMAT: LIMITED CD IN HANDMADE PACKAGING / DIGITAL

Er zit een gat in de soep is the second album by Puin + Hoop to be released on Narrominded

On their previous album Door the group explored the outlands of improvised music, post industrial drone and panoramic synthscapes. Er zit een gat in de soep is a continuation of this trip, but the trio of Roald van Dillewijn, Remco Verhoef and Erik Uittenbogaard have honed their sound to something more focused and minimal than before. This time they add hints of krautrock, kosmische muzik and classic ambient techno to the mix. The result is an intriguing and glowing album.

The material on Er zit een gat in de soep originates from experimenting with a new live recording setup for a concert in Amersfoort. The recordings of the actual gig failed, but the test takes turned out great and were worthy of release. There were some problems with the positioning of the different channels inside the stereo environment so these recordings were abandoned by the group for quite a while, but all the time, in the back of their minds they were playing with the idea of giving these sessions proper a release.

The album title translates to There is a hole in the soup. There is no particular significance to it other than 'it seems to fit the music' as the group states.

With Er zit een gat in de soep Puin + Hoop continue their trademark line of handmade packagings. They have been cutting, pasting, painting, sawing and hammering away on the sleeves for their releases since their early self released cd-rs. For their releases on Narrominded the group decided to keep with this tradition.
