Boutros Bubba

'Hearing Voicst in a Beer Commercial Makes Me Wanna Get Drunk' is the first effort by Boutros Bubba. Guitarist/vocalist Spoelstra and drummer Vreselijk Ongeluk are doing what they do best: rock and counting MATH STYLE. A delirious record with delirious artwork included. Both members of Boutros Bubba have played in the band Quarles van Ufford, that released the album Aurakramp on Narrominded.

Pfaff

Pfaff is the musical outlet of Bas Jacobs, also one of the driving forces behind That Dam! Magazine and the Wasser Umsonst evenings at De Nieuwe Anita in Amsterdam. Pfaff's music is influenced by a passing tram or the noise of the chain on your bike when it gets rusty. And all the music that sounds like music to them. You can label them a garage rockband or call them experimental indie.

Hydrus

Amsterdam sonologists Herman Wilken and Almer Lücke are Hydrus. They met at the Royal Conservatory in The Hague. Both of them played in rock bands, but are equally adapt at stochastic composition and programming extremely tight rhythms. Production-wise, these guys can easily live up to the greats in this genre. Just like the music on their Split LP-contribution, Postcards is a true gem of breathtakingly transparent polder electronics. Hydrus switches between melancholy and darkness. The second half of 2006 will see the release of their first full length album 'Interleaves'.

Narrominded

The most recent releases on Narrominded have stretched the label's musical boundaries beyond recognition. In 2002 Narrominded released the successful electronic compilation lp 'We're Running out of West', followed by the first two editions of the Split LP series (Living Ornaments / Accelera Deck, 2003 and Hydrus / Kettel, 2004). The release of 'Apocalypse Has Been Dubbed the Weekend Pill' by Psychon in November 2004 already gave a hint of Narrominded's future direction. "Psychon approaches music no-holds-barred; one gets the sense that everything and anything is possible", writes Dave Heaton of Erasing Clouds. Next up were Gone Bald with their emotional mix of emotional noise rock, new wave and freejazz, and Petrified Host with a record full of more conventional but very catchy rock songs. After that Narrominded released full-length cd's by the new wave / post-punk band Makazoruki and by electronic musicians Living Ornaments and a free mp3-abum by the math-rock outfit Quarles van Ufford. The Narrominded record label will continue to release music on various formats (lp, cd, mp3) and will also continue with the successful series of Split LP's.
